Growing Vegetable Oil Imports Reduces Soybean Crush in India

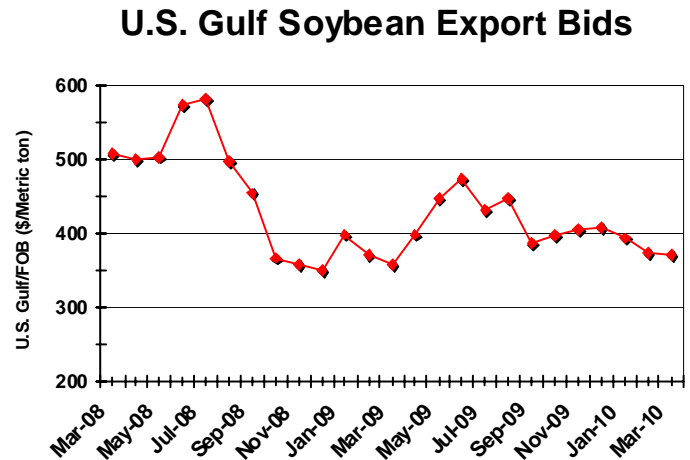

Vegetable oil imports continue to climb following the elimination of import duties, implemented in 2009 to reduce food inflation and lower consumer prices for basic foodstuffs. Lower vegetable oil prices have helped boost per capita oil consumption to record levels. However, this has also squeezed soybean processors that relied on higher internal oil prices to maintain positive crush margins. Facing lower domestic oil prices, strong soybean prices, and the inability to secure higher returns for soybean meal, processors have reduced the pace of soybean crushing. Consequently, soybean meal exports are currently forecast to fall to their lowest level in five years but could decline further if the monthly crush pace continues to slow. This would further raise soybean stocks beyond present forecast levels.

PRICES

U.S. soybean export bids, FOB Gulf, in the first week in March averaged $372 per ton, slightly higher than the same period a year ago. Prospects for record crops in South America and a seasonal slowdown in sales to China put downward pressure on export bids.

As of the week-ending February 25, 2010, U.S. soybean sales commitments (outstanding sales plus accumulated exports) to China totaled 21.9 million tons, compared to 16.0 million a year ago. Total commitments to the world amounted to 35.9 million tons compared to 27.1 million for the same period last year.

TRADE CHANGES IN 2009/10

- U.S. soybean exports are up 0.5 million tons to a record 38.6 million supported by strong export pace to date.
- Brazil's soybean exports are up 0.3 million tons to 25.6 million with prospects of early-season export demand.
- Argentina's soybean exports are cut 0.9 million tons to 7.0 million in response to reduced competitiveness and stronger crush.
- Indonesia's palm oil exports are up 0.8 million tons to a record 16.4 million supported by higher demand in India and China.
- India's soybean meal exports are down 0.7 million tons to 2.5 million due to reduced crush.
- India's palm oil imports are up 0.7 million tons to 7.3 million in response to strong vegetable oil demand.
